Christian Hymn Lyrics: Gifts of Bread and Wine

Our gifts of bread and wine, which once were wheat and grape will be your flesh and blood. Receive, O holy Father, almighty eternal God, this spotless sacrificial offering which our people make to you. We offer it for our failings, our countless sins and offences, may it rise before you as a fragrance for our own and the whole world's salvation.

After all, it is not as if the people are bringing the bread and wine from their own homes as they might have in the past. In addition, it would spare our parishes from the occasional awkward moment. Valid as these points may be, there is a far deeper spiritual significance to the presentation of the gifts which helps explain why this practice is still praiseworthy to this day.
